

PUBLIC HEALTH SURVEY

Leptospirosis is a bacterial disease that was first identified in the Virgin Islands after Hurricanes Irma & Maria. It can cause a wide range of symptoms – without treatment, it can lead to serious illness and even death.

The Department of Health and CDC will conduct leptospirosis community surveys from

March 4 to March 31:

St. Croix: March 4-17

St. John: March 18-24

St. Thomas: March 18-31

HELP KEEP YOUR FAMILY AND NEIGHBORS SAFE AND HEALTHY

If a survey team visits your house, please consider participating.

Results will help us learn how common leptospirosis is in USVI so we can give better advice to prevent it.
